

Lecture Series of the Department of Development Studies

War, Ukraine and food: a global crisis

Lecture by A. Haroon Akram-Lodhi

Professor of Economics and International Development Studies,
Department of International Development Studies,
Trent University, Canada

The war in Ukraine has produced an upheaval in the world food system, in food, feed, fertilizer, fuel and financing. This talk will situate this upheaval within the ongoing challenges facing the world food system in the 21st century, showing how the war in Ukraine has amplified a structural crisis in need of resolution.

Chaired by Kristina Dietz (University of Vienna)

See our website for current information

Please register using the following link:

<https://forms.gle/GXq8yfaKHWPSnGJC9>

Wednesday, June 1st 2022, 6.30-8.00 pm

University of Vienna, NIG lecture hall II

Co-hosted by:

FIAN Austria, the Institute for Development Research of BOKU University Vienna, the University of Music and Performing Arts Vienna, the Departments of Political Science, Cultural Management and Gender Studies as well as Geography and Regional Research of the University of Vienna