

IPW LECTURES

Putin´s War in Ukraine: A Roundtable Discussion

Participants:

Julia Baumann

(Geschwister Scholl Institute for Political Science, LMU Munich)

Edgars Eihmanis

(Willy Brandt Center for German and European Studies at University of Wrocław and Johan Skytte Institute of Political Studies at University of Tartu)

Anna Lazareva

(Department of Political Science, University of Vienna)

Anatoly Reshetnikov

(Webster Vienna Private University)

Yuliya Yurchenko

(International Business and Economics Department & and Political Economy, Governance, Finance and Accountability Institute, University of Greenwich)

Tatiana Zhurzhenko

(ZOIS - Center for East European and International Studies, Berlin)

Moderators:

Dorothee Bohle & Tobias Spöri

(Department of Political Science, University of Vienna)

Friday, 11 March 2022, 16:00

Online via Zoom

(registration via e-mail to maximilian.rigele@univie.ac.at required!)

Abstract

As the brutal invasion of Ukraine is going into its third week, the Department of Political Science convenes a roundtable of experts on Ukrainian, Russian and Baltic politics to discuss origins of the war and the current situation in Ukraine, the reaction within Russia, and the fall-out in the Baltic States. We will be covering humanitarian aspects of the war; national class dimension, tensions and competition since Ukraine's independence; disinformation and propaganda, the chances of elite defection and popular resistance in Russia, tensions and fears in the Baltic States, and possible ways out.

Link to the Zoom-meeting:

<https://univienne.zoom.us/j/68522004065?pwd=ajYzeXZ5RUM3U2VzY3ptVG9RS3k0QT09>

Meeting-ID: 685 2200 4065

(You will receive the identification code/"Kenncode" for participation after successful and approved registration via e-mail to maximilian.rigele@univie.ac.at)